

Efficiently Manage and Monitor Corporate Social Responsibility Programs

From small businesses to the world's largest companies, executives, compliance managers, and sustainability leaders are challenged to implement and demonstrate Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) programs. Social Responsibility is an essential component of brand equity and business excellence. To realize objectives, CSR programs must be comprehensively executed across a company and its supply chain.

The apparel and footwear industries are faced with enormous challenges related to product and worker safety, regulatory compliance, environmental sustainability and more, all atop the need to produce products that consumers desire with economics that benefit stakeholders.
